Site Location

Existing Site

Proposed Zoning & Construction

1.3 Concept

A seamless progression, a series of interrelated spaces, each with a unique identity, a continuous ribbon runs through the site. Organizing and linking the site, free from the geometric boundaries of the site, a spine creates a structural reference, a statement, and ornamentation. Defining the main pedestrian route, crossing the roads, linking with the existing buildings, the line concentrates in places defining the location of the new functions. Building mass formed along, over and around the ribbon, spaces formed between buildings, integrating with the surroundings. Hidden from the world, waiting to be explored, forming a Continuous and strong architectural barrier, effectively separating the worlds inside and outside the buildings, the cloister. In parallel, creating a murmur, a transition, a sequence of events, acting in a non- conventional way the cloister metamorphoses to the students and staff.

Consideration of the future, not compromising growth, expansion and development, a flexible solution, delivered in a manner to minimize the functionality of the site. Delivering the built program as provided, concentrated buildings, in clusters, create free land space, a buffer for noise, a space for construction materials and plant equipment, an approach that mitigates the impact on the current uses. A further organic growth along the pathways of the ribbon, providing additional built area, liberated from the functions of the existing and Phase- I, safeguarded for Phase II.

Master plan, consideration to building orientation is given, to address the significant heat gains from solar radiation. The ideal of the orthogonal East- West orientation achieved for some buildings, however the current buildings and constraints of the site dictate a more open approach.

For efficiency, buildings are spaced apart for air flow, building cross sections minimized to allow natural light, with roof areas kept low, informing a high rise solution.

To maintain thermal comfort levels and reduce cooling demands, the following principles are adhered:

- Thermal mass in the form of concrete frame, walls and floors are utilized, assisting to regulate the temperature between day and night,
- glazing to be selected with appropriate U-values and coatings to reflect UV light,
- Building envelope emissivity reduced and reflecting light and heat.

2. Invitation for Expression of Interest (EOI)

- i.
